Outcasts United selected for Second Season of Salem Reads!

Salem Reads is a community reads program that encourages a fondness for reading and the library by inviting the entire city to read a common book.

The Salem Reads Book Selection Committee has chosen Outcasts United* by Warren St. John for our second year! Outcasts United is the real-life story of refugees seeking new lives set against the backdrop of a fading American town struggling to accommodate its new arrivals. Together an inspiring group of refugees and a woman, with tough love and fiery determination, change an entire community for the better. Print copies, audio books and ebooks are available for checkout at both Salem Public Library locations and for sale at the Friends of the Library Book Store, The Book Bin, and Reader's Guide.

We hope you will support the important work of the Foundation

Please consider including the Salem Public Library Foundation in your year-end giving. Your generosity supports library programs, special efforts like Salem Reads, and capital improvements such as at the Gehlar Reading Room.

Calling All Book Clubs

Salem Public Library Foundation is grateful to the book clubs who have already signed up for our email list. If your club is not on the list, please send an email to salemlibraryfoundation@gmail.com and include the club name, contact person, phone, mailing address, and club email address in the message.

Our goal is to include book clubs throughout the region and encourage them to read the selected title for Salem Reads. We then hope you will join us for programs related to the book in February 2018. Please watch for the free book give-away and free tickets to the author lecture at the Salem Reads Opening Celebration Tuesday, February 6.
